We hope that the varied content of the newsletter provides you with a stimulating disjunctures on the other, underscores the need to move cautiously with the political fronts. The combination of progress in some arenas and detours and systems, generating concerns and contestations on legal, institutional, social and ID ecosystems, aimed at improving security, financialisation, and/or service delivery. It is also true in seemingly peaceful times and stable places. turned-refugees are unevenly recognized in given geopolitical spaces, depending socio-political value, and their patterns of delivery and access/exclusion. Such of state sovereignty, nationhood, citizenship, identity, boundaries, and belonging. reminded of the complex and increasingly precarious relationship between notions painful wave of violent mass displacements and long-term uncertainties, we are As a devastating crisis unfolds in Ukraine, prompting yet another dramatic and PHOTOS: UNHCR/Hélène Caux

We welcome proposals from any discipline by the respective deadlines of theme or context relating to citizenship and statelessness issues. The journal welcomes any kind of publishing, including book chapters, job openings, researching funding, or other opportunities. We encourage you to submit announcements of relevant opportunities for the next CERTIZENS newsletter, including conference calls, calls for journal articles, and other resources.

In brief: Three Ways in Which People Are Excluded from ID Systems

1. Enhanced identification requirements that underpin public, social, and material objects.
2. Dual citizenship: A comparative study of Kenya and Uganda
3. Mobiles as empowering tools for women and girls, with a focus on the uses of mobile technologies, power relations and contestations around this small but powerful

We produced a study of the passport and its associated social, political and material impacts on 24 Feb 2022.

Amanda Hammar